The Florida Center for Instructional Technology is located in the College of Education, University of South Florida, Tampa. Our goal is to provide quality instructional resources to Florida's students and teachers.

The Florida Association for Computer in Education, Inc. provides a cohesive, unified organization to represent the concerns of people who are interested in instructional technology. Established in 1985, FACE is one of the most supportive educational technology associations in the country. The FACE membership includes PreK-20 educators, students, parents, educational institutions and corporations.

FACE operates as an independent, member-financed, non-profit corporation. The state, Regions, and county locals all elect their officers annually.
