

Chapter L: "Miriam, Hilda, Kenyon, Donatello"
The Marble Faun

What is the fate of each of the characters?

Miriam:

Hilda:

Kenyon:

Donatello:

Is this ending a fitting conclusion? Do you agree with the narrator that looking too closely at things is unnecessary? Why or why not?