

Logs

- Used to document specific behaviors practiced or occurrences of desired results
- Documentation can be done by the participant or those who benefit from the services of the participant
- May be done in written form such as a journal
- May record actions such as an instructional approach used after training or the reactions of the students to the instructional approach