

Chapter XXXI: "A Victorious Union" A Victorious Union

The narrative suggests that, "They were the same as they had been before the war." Do you believe that such a statement would be accurate? Do you think it would have been possible for a family so involved in the conflict to come through it unchanged? Explain your answer, using details from the text.