

Chapter IV: The Supper-Table

The Blithedale Romance

Coverdale notes the differences between “we people of superior cultivation and refinement” and the common people, like Silas Foster. Use another sheet of paper to list the characteristics of each, as related by Coverdale.

Describe the unexpected guest.

What is mysterious, or seems to foreshadow other events, in this chapter?