A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court

Directions: After reading Chapter VII draw a sequence of events chart to illustrate what happens in the chapter. Now, answer the question at the bottom of the page.

Question: In this chapter, the Yankee becomes the second personage of the kingdom. How is the Yankee described physically? How is this description evidence of his standing in the government? Compare this to today's society. How do specific positions of authority dress differently from others in order to distinguish themselves from those around them?
