

“One Potato, Two Potato”

Teacher:

Explain to students that this rhyme can be played as a game. Students stand in a circle with both fists in front of them. The person who is the counter goes around the circle, reciting the rhyme and tapping one fist for each number. Each time the last line of the poem is reached, the person who is tapped removes that fist from the circle. The game continues until only one fist is left. This may be done in small groups to allow each student a chance to recite the poem and count fists.
