"The Tailor of Gloucester"
The Great Big Treasury of Beatrix Potter

Directions: The moral of this story might be, "One good deed deserves another." Or perhaps, "Evil is as evil does" would fit better. Explain which moral you think fits best with this story or write one of your own. While you are reading, place sticky notes on the text where you find supporting details for your opinion. Be sure to include these details in your explanation.
