Chapter XVI “At the Hole of Cree”

The reader is left, in the last chapter, with a final question. As the narrator says, “Why the chelas of Ghoolab Shah should have removed their victims to the desolate Hole of Cree instead of taking their lives at Cloomber, is, I confess, a mystery to me.”

Solve the mystery by writing an additional chapter that relates the events that took place at the Hole of Cree. Consider the style and substance of the previous chapters when creating your own.
