This Map is on a scale which allows only an outline of Ptolemy's System. The limits of the Orbis Veteribus Notus, as here given, correspond in general with the boundary line described on the opposite page; we notice, however, that, on the north, the river Carambucis is not included; and on the west, the Atlantic coast is extended southward beyond Noti Cornu or Noto-Ceras (Southern Horn), which was a little south of the point on this Map called Hesperu Cornu.—It has been remarked that "the manuscripts of Ptolemy and the maps appear to have been copied by different hands, holding no communication with each other; and accordingly, in many instances, these two parts of the same work do not correspond."
